OREGON HAZZEL

The Lain Organian. FRIDAY MOLNING, OCTOBUR 14, 1881.

The press of the country is now very generally discussing the consequences of lax administration of crimina, justice. The Chicago Tribune of October 1st states that from the reginning of the year to that date 903 murders perpetrated in various parts of the United States, had been reported in its tellographic columns. It is added that this record does not include cases where victims were seriously or fatally injured, the results of which were not reported, but only those where the victims were killed outright; and, of course, to this total must be added many cases not reported at all by the wires. Of this total of, 903 murcors more than one-fourth were the result of quarrels. During the same period there have been but seventy executions in the United States. Of these forty-nine, or considerably more than half, took place in the southern s ates, and of the forty-nine all but four or five were negroes, who ere hanged in that section upon very small " provocation and light evidence. The endrmo is disproportion hetween crime and penalty is shown by these figures. One murderer in about fifteen, thus fa- in the year, and this proportion only in cases telegraphically reported, has met the extreme ponalty of his crime! The i gures are su Reient comment of thorselves upon the lax manner in which justice is administered. Ivery citizen knows that lynch law, or mob justice, cannot possibly be exeased as a principle and yet the causes which usually lead to tice by which the aim an spirt of the law are pensistently de cated throught nibbles, technical: ies and processinations. Though the law provides a penalty for murder, construction inc execution of the law are, as a rule, distorted o protect the murderer.
